

NHSMUN 2019 COUNTRY MATRIX

HOW TO USE THE COUNTRY MATRIX SPREADSHEET FOR REGISTRATION

INTRODUCTION

The Country Matrix is the document you will use to determine which countries and committees you will request for your group. Since each country has a pre-determined number of seats on various committees, your group's size will be an important factor when identifying your best country fits. Specialized Agencies, many of which have unique roles, are requested separately and are optional. More information is provided below.

This matrix is divided into three sections: Section 1 (Countries Alphabetically), Section 2 (Countries by Maximum Delegation Size), and Section 3 (Specialized Agencies). The first two sections are identical and contain the same information in different orders, while the third section is specific to the specialized agencies.

In Sections 1 and 2, the left side of the matrix lists all countries of the UN, while the top of the matrix lists the committees featured at NHSMUN 2019. To identify whether a country is represented in a given committee, look to the right of the country name where the column of the committee intersects the row of the country. If a "1" is present, then that country is represented in the committee. On the far right side of the matrix, the minimum and maximum delegation sizes for each country are listed, and they are calculated based on the committees in which the country is represented. When selecting country preferences, the size of your delegation should fall between these two numbers, and as a general rule, should be near the maximum number. In many cases, schools with larger groups of students will need to represent two or more countries. If your group size presents an exception to these guidelines, let us know and we can troubleshoot with you!

SECTIONS 1 AND 2: NHSMUN 2019 COMMITTEES

Sections 1 and 2 will assist you in choosing your country requests for NHSMUN 2019's committees. Please pay specific attention to the minimum and maximum numbers in the columns at the far right. The minimum is the smallest number of delegates who can represent a given country, and the maximum is the largest number of delegates who can represent a given country. Your team size should fall between the minimum and maximum numbers. The closer your team size is to the maximum size of the countries of your preference, the more likely it is that we will be able to accommodate your requests (e.g., if you are bringing 10 students, it is better to request countries with a maximum near 10, as opposed to countries with a maximum near, hypothetically, 24).

DOUBLE DELEGATIONS

Please note: committees that are starred () allow for double delegations (two students per committee). While it is often advisable that you put two delegates on each of these committees, it is not absolutely required that you do so.

BRINGING FEWER THAN 6 DELEGATES

If your group has fewer than 6 delegates, please focus on countries with maximum sizes of ~10 or less. Similarly, if you are an individual delegate, please provide a description of your preferences in the "Comments" section of your registration submission, so that we can accommodate you to the best of our ability.

BRINGING MORE THAN 25-30 DELEGATES

The largest countries can accommodate approximately 25-30 students. If your school will have more than 25-30 students, the remaining students can be assigned to specialized agencies, or, you can request a second delegation. For example, hypothetically, if you plan to bring 32 students, you might choose to request a country that has a high maximum and then request placements on specialized agencies for the remaining seats. Alternatively, you could also request to have two countries whose maximums total to ~32. Should you plan to bring more than 40 students, you will almost definitely need to request two countries, which (combined with any specialized agencies) have appropriate maximum/minimum numbers to accommodate your total group size. Even larger schools would likely request three countries, and so forth.

SECTION 3: NHSMUN 2019 SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

Section 3 provides the representation of NHSMUN 2019's Specialized Agencies. It is optional to request seats on the Specialized Agencies. Please note that countries in Sections 1 and 2 are requested and assigned SEPARATELY from those in the Specialized Agencies. For example, being assigned China on the standard committees will have no effect on whether or not that school will represent China on the Security Council or other specialized agencies in Section 3. Additionally, as there are limited spots on specialized agencies, placement on them cannot be guaranteed, so registering early is recommended. Specialized agencies are optional and there is no obligation to request placement on these committees.

If you request a specialized agency placement, please take this into account when considering the maximum and minimum sizes of the countries from Sections 1 or 2 above. For example, if you have 15 students and request a seat for 1 student on a specialized agency, you can request a country from Sections 1-2 that has a maximum of 14 or greater, since one of the students is already included in your specialized agency request. In the absence of specialized agencies, you would need to request a country with a maximum of 15 or greater.

You'll note that each specialized agency has a slightly different structure. SC, HSC, CoEU, and IAEA are each composed of different countries. On the other hand, the ICJ and ICC are each comprised of 15 judges, represented by 15 different delegates. If requesting a seat on the ICJ or ICC, it is implied that the slot is for an individual judge (student). Similarly, delegates in CRISIS and HISTORICAL CRISIS will represent specifically assigned roles in those committees. All of this is elaborated in Section 3. For more information about these committees, please visit the NHSMUN website.

When registering, you will be asked for your requests for specific specialized agency committees, as well as the countries or roles that you would most desire. We will always do our best to accommodate your requests.

ASSISTANCE

For more information regarding specific committees, or if you are having trouble understanding the Country Matrix, please email us (registration.nhsmun@imuna.org). We will be happy to review the process with you by email or telephone so that you fully understand prior to completing your registration.

How to Read the Country Matrix:

Welcome to the NHSMUN 2019 Country Matrix. This matrix will be used by you, a Faculty Advisor, to identify country preferences during the registration process. For those of you who have registered before, you can go ahead and dive right in, but for those of you who are new to the process, or need a refresher, we have provided step-by-step instructions below on how to read and use the matrix. As always, please feel free to contact us if you have any questions.

First and foremost, it's important to understand the matrix is divided into three sections. The first section lists countries alphabetically, the second lists countries by maximum delegation size, and the third section lists our specialized agencies. The first and second sections have the exact same information, just in different orders, while the third has different information from the first two.

In order to read the matrix, you will first look down the far-left column to identify a country. After identifying that country, if you look across the row, you will see a series of boxes filled with either 1's or blanks. If you look across the top row, you will see a list of committees. Look down to the box that lies at the intersection of that column and the row of the country in which you are interested. If the box contains a 1, then the country is represented in that committee; if it is blank, then the country is not represented in that committee. For example, in the visual below, if we look at Albania, we can see that it is represented in: DISEC, SOCHUM, UNCTAD, and CSW. This representation yields a maximum of 8 students who can represent Albania in these committees.

Next, we'll explain how to read the committee names. NHSMUN 2019 is composed of 2 types of committees: standard committees and specialized agencies. The first two sections of the country matrix show representation in the standard committees, and the specialized agencies are represented in the third section. Committees are displayed across the top of the matrix in vertical text. Committees whose names are followed by two asterisks () are double delegation committees. All other committees are single delegation committees. Double delegations can be, but do not have to be, represented by 2 delegates from a team. While we recommend that schools assign two delegates to our double delegation committees, it is possible and allowable for only one delegate to serve in one of these committees. In the single delegation committees, countries are represented by only one delegate, and it is not possible to assign two delegates to these committees. In the above example, UNEP and UNDP are the two single delegate committees.

The far-right column has the minimum and maximum delegation sizes. When selecting a country, you should only select those for which your total group size falls between the minimum and maximum (and generally, closer to the maximum) or for a larger delegation, between the combined minimum and maximum sizes of multiple countries (again, as a general rule, closer to the combined maximum). If requesting specialized agencies, this will impact your size considerations as well, so be sure to factor this in! Let us know if you have any questions, and we will be very happy to assist.
